DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Claims 2-10 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 10/14/04.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 1, the limitation that the harness extends in a direction opposite to "the other bracket" is indefinite because no other bracket is recited. For the purposes on analysis, the limitation is treated a meaning that the harnesses extend parallel to the axis of the rotating shaft of the machine.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shimizu. Per claim 1, Shimizu discloses an electric rotating machine comprising: an output terminal board 174 mounted on one bracket of the electric rotating machine, and output harnesses 182 connected to said output terminal board; wherein said output harnesses are connected to said output terminal board in such a manner as to extend in a direction parallel to the axis of the rotating shaft of the machine.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Imori et al. ("Imori") in view of Shimizu. Regarding claim 1, Imori discloses an electric rotating machine comprising: an output terminal board 10 mounted on one bracket of the electric rotating machine, and output harnesses (implied) connected to said output terminal board; wherein said output harnesses are connected to said output terminal board in such a manner as to extend in a direction parallel to the axis of the rotating shaft of the machine. To the extent that Imori does not show explicitly the harnesses, Shimizu discloses typical harnesses 180 for connection to the terminals. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to attach typical harnesses to the Imori terminals as taught in Shimizu. The suggestion or motivation for doing so would have been to facilitate the transmission of electricity to and from the machine as taught in Shimizu and as is well known in the art. To the extent that arguably the structure 10 in Imori is not "terminal board," Shimizu discloses a terminal board 174. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to modify the Imori insulation 10 into a terminal board such as a three terminal board as taught in Shimizu. The suggestion or motivation for doing so would have been to facilitate the transmission of three phase power as taught in Shimizu and as is well known in the art.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kaizu, Asao, Karlsberger, and Davis disclose various configurations of the output harnesses being led from the machine.
